

PAVED ROAD TO CONNECT TWO CITIES

CONCRETE HIGHWAY BETWEEN
BELOIT AND JANESVILLE
MAY BE CONSTRUCTED
IN 1917.

TO USE FEDERAL AID

Good Roads Meeting at Beloit Takes Steps Toward Consumption of Trunk Line Highway
Plan.

WHAT IS PROPOSED.

A cement highway connecting Beloit and Janesville via Yost Park.
A county bond issue of $150,000 to construct the same in 1917.
Use the federal aid to be apportioned to Rock county for the building of the trunk line system.
Co-operation of the cities to build paved streets to the city limits to meet the trunk line highway pavement.
Definitely formulated plan will be placed before county board in November.

Janesville and Beloit will be connected by a cement highway eighteen miles in length by the end of 1917 if the campaign launched last evening at the Beloit Good Roads meeting is carried through. As a result of the deliberations which were attended by highway experts of national reputation, a committee composed of the members of the highway committees of the Janesville Commercial club and the Beloit Business Men's association, and the county supervisors of the two cities, were appointed to definitely formulate plans which will be placed before the county board at either the November or January session. This committee will hold a meeting in September.

To Apply Federal Aid.
According to the proposals made at the Beloit meeting, the plan will be to apply the federal aid to be apportioned to Rock county toward the building of the Beloit-Janesville trunk line road. While the manner of apportioning Wisconsin's share of the federal money has not been decided, it is probable that the legislature will act on the basis of former road funds in which case the amount due Rock county for the five years will be $33,000. The state must furnish an equal amount, and the cities have no doubt but that they will be able to make provision for a like appropriation from the county in which the money is to be expended. It is such will be the working plan of the project, and there is no opposition expected from the cities. The total amount, however, will not become available until 1921, since the federal allotment covers a period of five years. Consequently, in the opinion of the highway experts, the road movement at hand. It would be advisable for the county to float a five year bond issue which would cover the construction work to begin as early as next spring.

It is a practical certainty that the city members of the county board will do all in their power to further the project, and there is no opposition expected from the cities. In fact, there are an increasing number of farmers throughout the county who are beginning to realize the need for permanent highways and are urging the building of cement concrete road will be a step toward further permanent highways in Rock county.

Cities to Co-operate.
Co-operation of the cities of Beloit and Janesville will be sought to build pavements as far as the city limits connecting with the trunk line highway. For Janesville, the plan is to have the paving of Center avenue from Belmont street across the Monterey bridge and as far as the city limits. Beloit it would mean the raising of the grade of Pleasant street and the paving of the same for a stretch of nearly three-fourths of a mile.

Beloit, Janesville and Rockford are represented at the meeting last evening. Beloit city residents and Winnebago county residents are looking forward as eagerly to a cement road between Beloit and Rockford as Janesville and Beloit boosters are anxious to have the Janesville-Beloit highway. In fact, four miles on concrete construction work has already been started north of Rockford, and the work will be continued to Rockton, Roscoe and Beloit, which is possible dispatch. In the end there will be a trunk line highway along the Rock river valley for a distance of thirty-five miles connecting Janesville, Beloit and Rockford.

Prominent among the speakers last evening was Frank G. Cannon of Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin Good Roads association. He made a strong appeal for the economy and efficiency of the trunk line highway, and with the aid of maps and abundance of statistics proved the value of the permanent types of main highways connecting the important cities of the state. A. A. Keeler, chairman of the Wisconsin Highway Commission, gave an address along the same lines, and showed the advantage to Beloit, Janesville and all Wisconsin of such a road as it is proposed to build. The route is what is known as the Grant Highway System, connecting Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and other states with Wisconsin. On the route is Chicago, with its tens of thousands of automobiles which are becoming the great traveling conveyances of tourists. Thousands of motorists are flocking to the northern Wisconsin lake region will use this highway once it is constructed.

Speakers Urge Good Roads.
Among the other speakers were George S. Parker, vice president for Rock county of the Wisconsin Good Roads association; W. L. Eaton, Good Roads editor of the Rockford Register; Malcolm McKinnon of the Good Highway Improvement association; E. H. Keeler of the Rockford Chamber of Commerce road committee; W. H. Dougherty, Janesville city attorney; Charles E. Moore, county highway commissioner; and Senator Lawrence Cunningham of Beloit. W. Wilford of Beloit, a member of the county board, presided at the gathering, which was held in the Beloit council chambers. Others who attended from Janesville were John M. Whitehead and Marshall P. Richardson.

WILL DELAY SENDING OF NEW TROOPS

WAR DEPARTMENT SUSPENDS ORDER DISPATCHING REMAINING OF STATE MILITIA TO BORDER.

A MATTER OF CAUTION

In View of Railroad Strike Possibilities Troop Movement Is Inadvisable.—Funston Gives Advice on Subject.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 15.—Orders for the remaining mobilized units of the National Guard to proceed to the border have been suspended by the war department. No official information has been made, but it is known that the delicacy of the railroad strike situation has been the moving consideration.

A Precautionary Measure.
The suspension of the order to the troops which would have moved from the border should not be taken as an indication that the president's negotiation with the railroad managers have taken an unfavorable turn, but as a measure of caution. It was considered highly undesirable that all the remaining guardsmen should be moved to the border, while there was a possibility of a railroad strike in progress. They might be called upon to preserve order throughout some of these troops in the event of a strike, might be called upon to guard and operate mail trains and supplying the troops already on the border.

It is clear that the suspension is not a revocation of the order, and that if the railroad strike situation clears up, the troops will be moved to the border line.
The official explanation of the difficulties of transportation and equipment suddenly developed as a delay necessary. It is known here that the railway situation is the real cause.

Recommended by Funston.
A telegram from Major General Funston made public by the war department disclosed that the general recommended a suspension of the order. His telegram follows:

"In view of the possibility of a general railroad strike, I desire to call the attention of the war department to difficulties that will follow in maintaining supplies not only of troops in this department, but of the civilian population as well. The border stations produce but little food stuffs except cattle."

In view of the foregoing, I recommend that the National Guard organizations which are about to start for border stations, be retained in their mobilized stations until such time as the question of a general strike shall have been determined."

Late Orders Revoked.
San Antonio, Aug. 15.—The orders for the remainder of the country's militia, about 25,000 men, to proceed to the border, were revoked, according to announcement received, according to headquarters today. The war department notified headquarters here that troops would continue to be held in their state mobilization camps.

Army officers today commented with a displeasure on the new order requiring their automobiles to bear the insignia of the War Department. For Official Business Only.
"I think I will put up my machine and do my work on foot," said General Funston.

WILL GRANT EIGHT HOUR DAY DEMAND

RAILROAD MANAGERS SUBMIT
PROPOSAL FOR SETTLEMENT AT CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT.

Arbitration Issue Still a Sore Point
With Brotherhood Leaders Who Claim Eight Hour Concession
Was Made Previously.

Washington, Aug. 15.—After the committee of railroad managers had another conference with President Wilson today, it became known that a proposal was under consideration by which the railroads would accept the eight-hour day and leave the working up of its application to the interstate commerce commission or some body formed for the purpose.

White House, the brotherhood leaders awaited the call for their conference. The general opinion among them was that the president was putting the burden of averting the strike up to the railroads, and that the prospects for a settlement were good.

Principle of Arbitration.
Having agreed practically to the principle of arbitration, the brotherhood leaders are inclined to the view that the controversy could be settled by the railroads granting the basic eight-hour day and arbitrating the demand for time and a half for overtime; or by eliminating the double compensation feature and having the railroads make a flat agreement to put in the eight-hour day.

The attitude of the managers as they went to the White House was said to be one of shielding something. They had spent most of the night deciding whether they should eliminate all their contingent proposals or some of them.

Secretary Tamm issued the following statement:
"The president spent an hour and a half this morning with the representatives of the railway management. At the conference he said it was impossible as yet to report on the result. All that he could say was that candid and honest discussion was in progress about practicable stages of settlement. Whether this plan can be worked out will not be known until President Wilson presents it to the brotherhood leaders."

To Grant Eight Hour Day.
The railroads are understood to be ready to concede the principle of an eight-hour day, providing concession be made by the employees so too heavy a burden will not be placed on the railroads.

The men take the stand that they principally want an eight-hour day on conditions that it shall be enforced wherever possible. The railroads are said to believe it is impossible to accept the eight-hour day, unless a workable system of application can be built up. Members of the managers' committee said they had no plans for the future and did not know whether they would be called to the White House again.

The managers took the position that the eight-hour day and the collateral issues were inseparable and that it would not

FOUR JANESVILLE YOUNG MEN DEPART ON NAVAL CRUISE

Aubrey Pember, Archie Keating, F. D. Hayes and K. N. Swiggum Will Take Four Weeks' Naval Training.

Four of the twenty-four Wisconsin civilians, who embarked today on United States naval cruisers for the four weeks' training course offered by the United States war department, were from Janesville. Aubrey Pember, Archie Keating, K. H. Swiggum and Frank D. Hayes are the four local men who have taken advantage of Uncle Sam's offer to spend a pleasant vacation and at the same time learn the rudiments of naval training.

The civilian volunteers left Chicago Monday morning on a special train carrying the Illinois and Wisconsin contingent to Norfolk, Va., where they were ordered to report aboard the various ships between eight o'clock and noon today. Leaving Norfolk today, the same time that seven other ships will put to sea from other ports, the Janesville sailor rookies will be on the water four weeks. The first week the ships will cruise individually. The second week they will participate with the Atlantic fleet in the war game. The next seven days will be spent in maneuvers along the Atlantic coast. During the fourth week the cruisers will return to their ports and the motor boat cruise will begin.

They will be members of the crews of the sea lighters during the voyage. They will learn to fire the big guns, swim, deck, polish brass, sleep in hammocks, operate wireless apparatus, run battleship machinery and do everything else that will equip them to serve as naval militia reserves for Uncle Sam in case of war.

The eight ships, the points of departure and command of each of the parties are: U. S. S. Kearsarge from Portland, Me.; U. S. S. Virginia from Boston; 483 men; also from Newport, 28 men; U. S. S. Maine and U. S. S. Kentucky from New York City; 243 men; U. S. S. Rhode Island from Philadelphia; 379 men; U. S. S. Illinois from Norfolk; 101 men, and the U. S. S. Alabama from Charleston, 101 men.

Each day's cruise begins at 4 a. m. and ends at 9:05 p. m. A program of sporting events between the rookie crews, baseball games, regattas, swimming contests and the like will be staged.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES CONTEMPT CASE AGAINST U. S. ATTORNEY UP TODAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Aug. 15.—A phase of the United States contempt proceedings against United States Supreme Court here today.

The contempt proceedings grew out of the United States contempt proceedings against Congressman Frank Buchanan of Illinois and other members of Labor's National Peace council in connection with alleged German bomb plots said to have been hatched in the United States.

Congressman Buchanan, charging irregularity in the actions of Marshall in handling the case before the Federal Grand jury, got a congressional investigating committee appointed to come to New York and probe Marshall's acts.

The investigating congressmen, displeased with what they considered Marshall's bulky attitude toward them and their investigation, held in rebuff the House of Representatives for contempt.

Marshall sought a writ of habeas corpus before Federal District Judge in New York to prevent the house compelling him to appear and answer the charge. Judge Hand dismissed the habeas corpus proceeding after a hearing on his merits. Marshall has until midnight today to perfect an appeal to the United States supreme court from the dismissal of his action by Judge Hand. Marshall's petition stated that he had serious doubts as to the jurisdiction of the house in halting him before it for contempt. He also questioned the right of Speaker Clark to issue a warrant for his arrest.

WABASH-PITTSBURGH RAILROAD NORTH THREE MILLION, SOLD AT AUCTION TODAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15.—The Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal railway is up for sale by a master at the company's auction here today. The Erie was expected to be the most interested bidder. The price wanted is about $3,000,000.

The Erie may be a purchaser of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad before long, according to gossip in railroad circles. The Pennsylvania because of the United States supreme court's decree dissolving the Northern Securities company, cannot acquire either the Wabash-Pittsburgh or the Erie.

The Erie, by getting hold of the latter, would have ready-built connection between its own lines and the Wabash-Pittsburgh.

Tomorrow Is Ringling Day.

DRIVING THE FIRST STAKE

Building the tented city. The circus grounds tomorrow morning.

Along about dawn the wonder-trains of Spanglestown will have begun to arrive in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and the circus will be here. The first of the four sections will arrive here today about 4 A. M. and from that day the march of the cavalcade will extend to the show grounds until all the trains have been unloaded. The big tent will come here from Racine where it is exhibiting today.

The coming of the Ringling Bros. Circus to Janesville will increase the local census by 1570 people, 735 horses, 41 elephants including the circus' mascot, "Big Bingo," 108 tons of wild animals, 35 camels and herds of zebras and ostriches. Local railway officials today stated that it is the largest organization that ever visited in this locality.

It is estimated that in some camps that carry the sawmill, the circus invasion will be regarded by the "flying squadron" carrying the commissary and given over entirely to the performers and executive staff in any well regulated family. For, contrary to the suspicions of many a youngster, the clowns do not always wear paint and dress just like ordinary patrons and have quite as keen appetites. So, from off the first train to reach here tomorrow morning will roll the mammoth range and steam boiler wagons and the big circus train, the canvas dining rooms and all the hotel equipment. These will be hastened to the show grounds, the world's biggest kitchen will be erected, fires lighted and a piping hot meal will be in readiness when Messrs. Ringling's thousands and more boarders arrive. Most of the latter will come to town on the fourth and last train which is this season made up of solid, vestibuled Pullmans and given over entirely to the performers and executive staff. Trains two and three carry but few people for they are too heavily loaded with "Cinderella" spectacle parades, costumes, golden tableaux wagons and all the paraphernalia of the circus. For the information of the inquisitive small boy it should be added that the "tigers and lions and things" travel on the same train with the com-sary outfit. This is probably because the baby animal, who grows hungry in the night, as youngsters will, and the larger being near, can be sent off to sleep with a few pounds of choice meat.

Long before the hour of parade the entire moving municipality will have been established at the show grounds and the local small boys will know all the elephants by their first names for the grown ups, it is likely that the majority of them will be satisfied to have the parade give them their first touch of "circus day fever." The street pageant is scheduled for 10 A. M. It will be three miles long and contain many novelities such as a team of sixteen elephants driven like horses, a big mounted band in addition to those which disburse melodies from the tops of rally bedecked tabernacles, and zebras fitted with bill and bridge. The contents of scores of open doors promise to extract "Ohs" and "Ahs" along the line of march, most of the elephants will be on hand, hundreds of beautiful horses will draw rumbling gold leaf allegorical cars, or serve as mounts for strangely garbed people, and in place of the proverbial lion steam piano there will be two calliopes.

Out at the circus grounds the side shows will open immediately after the street parade. The afternoon performance will begin at 2 P. M. and the night program at 8 o'clock. In tent and menagerie will open an hour earlier that all may inspect the rodeo or enjoy the concert band selections.

This season the circus opens with "Cinderella" spectacle. The Ringling Bros. have taken the nursery tale and built into a gigantic pantomime requiring a cast of more than 1,000 actors. On a stage which is said to be the largest ever constructed, and amid fairyland scenery, the entire story of the fairy tale is told from the day when "Cinderella" must sit in the chimney corner until she reclaims the glass slipper and weds the handsome prince. A ballet of three hundred girls who play the roles of sprites, dwarf bands, huge professional pageants and gorgeous costumes are features of the production.

After the spectacle comes the circus proper enlisting four hundred and fifty actors. These number Antonio Zingaro and his band of gypsy riders; Mlle. Letzel, the world's smallest and greatest woman aerialist; a troupe of thirty Chinese champions from Peking; Josephson and his company of arctic athletes; Birdie Ford, who tangoes on lofty wires; Silas Green and his entire family of acrobats, aunts, dogs and horses in laughable riding numbers; sixty clowns; and scores of Europe's foremost circus artists who have been obliged to seek engagements in America because of the great war. Presented as a special entertainment for the juvenile patrons and made a part of the main tent program is a "circus within a circus" embracing a selected company of dumb animal actors including all species of bears, monkeys, dogs, cats and sheldons. And of course there will be elephants, three herds of them, in many new tricks featuring ludicrous cabaret scenes.

FLOUR'S GOING UP; BREAD MAY GO TOO

Flour is Now Selling for $2.25 Per Sack.—Raise May Effect Price of Bread.

Janesville users of whole wheat flour and buyers of bread may not be paying six cents for a loaf of bread and $2.50 for a sack of flour. This is what the city dealers predict would happen if wheat prices continue to climb in price. Flour has jumped from $1.90 to $2.25 in the past week or eight days and it still has a chance to reach to two fifty mark. Flour first began its climb in June, 1914, practically coincident with the outbreak of the European war and, with the progress of the war, increased exportations, warning nations, has steadily mounted in price. Janesville grocers say that it is not probable that flour will be selling for $2.50 a sack at the end of the month. Bakers are not feeling the effects of the rise in price just at present because most of them are stocked up with enough to finish out the month. However, should flour at the end of that period be as high as it now is, they say they can see no way out but to raise the price to 6 cents for the small loaves. Local bakers will not be effected for the present time at least for most of them have supplies of flour to last them until the end of the month. A prominent wholesale baking house is making the move that if a raise is made they will probably make a six cent loaf in place of the five cent one and the ten cent loaf will be made a trifle smaller.

The Magic Shave.

The man with a retreating chin may grow a beard and hide it, or he may frankly shave the exigent offender, careless whether it recedes or not. The most candid may be seen in a shaven chin; and of all the manly, valorous qualities that of candor, downrightness, may be ranked first. The weakness attributed to a retreating chin may be canceled by shaving it. The man who accepts his face as nature gave it to him, braving it to the world without concealment or decoration, must be classed among those with the manly quality. Cartoonists and novelists have waived the weak chin to the limbo of the inefficient and inept. Let the man without the masterful jaw take heart; he has but to shave to show the qualities desired. From Atlantic.

Old Magazines Are Useful.

Have an old magazine handy on the kitchen serving table upon which to place hot or soiled dishes from the stove. As the top leaf becomes soiled, it is torn off and burned. Because of the weight of the magazine, it is often possible to tear off a leaf with one hand while the other hand is engaged. This is easier than scrubbing black and greasy rings from the table or having the white oilcloth soiled by stains and burns. When the youngsters want to paste things into their scrapbooks, give them an old magazine to work on. As fast as a leaf becomes gunny it may be torn off and thrown away, and a clean one is always waiting. This saves the table from becoming sticky and smeared with paste.

RAIL STRIKE WOULD STOP LOCAL PLANTS WITHIN WEEK'S TIME

City Would Be Able to Eat Three Times a Day, But Industrial Power Would Be Big Problem.

Janesville would feel the effects of a railroad strike within a period of forty-eight hours.

But Janesville and other cities of the nation are not going to feel the pinch of a general walk-out by the employees of the railway men living in Janesville.

Expressed the prediction that the national rail strike clouds would shortly blow over. Unnecessary and alarm newspaper reports of the meeting of the three brotherhoods and the committees of the three brotherhoods were discredited by local railroad men.

But in the event of a strike and general paralysis of the nation's transportation facilities it is interesting to know just what effect a strike would have on Janesville and other cities.

According to a table made this morning the matter assumes an aspect something like this:

Milk, ice, butter and eggs, poultry, have failed and vegetables—Supplies accessible from surrounding country.

Wholesale Groceries—Between two and three weeks' supply on hand. Gasoline—Three weeks' supply in city.

Coal—Supply would not last over a week.

Fruits—Enough to last a week.

Meats—Forty-eight hours' supply, but strike would be impetus to butchering locally.

Practically every factory in the city would suffer from fuel shortage if the strike continued for two weeks. This, of course, perhaps, no gas or electricity, no water and the stopping of street and interurban car service. Incidentally the coal shortage would shut out of work hundreds of factory employees.

Janesville's location in the heart of a rich farming and dairy belt gives it an advantage over many larger cities declared. This will not suffer as much as many other cities.

Garden eatables are procurable and in the event of local butchers missing out on their daily meat supplies, in the majority of cases shipped in from Chicago, it would be an easy matter to resume slaughtering operations in the city.

ICE SHORTAGE IS A NEW POSSIBILITY

Extreme Hot Weather, Danger of Railroad Strike and Shortage of Transportation Important.

There is extreme danger of an ice shortage in Janesville. The extreme heat, water last winter caused a severe shortage in the usual harvest and in consequence much ice was used this year. This has been shipped to other points and the shortage is being felt here.

Extreme hot weather has lessened the points and in consequence with the lack of river ice, the shortage is being felt here. A railroad strike is being feared as it would become a serious problem.

Support from the winter's cut, as Elgin, Joliet, Freeport, etc., and other Illinois cities along the Rock River valley, while at Davenport, Iowa, the situation is acute. Very little ice is being shipped in from lake points owing to the extreme hot weather, and a shortage, in consequence the house is urged to husband their daily supply of ice until such change occurs.

He liked to look for a horse. I don't care for a horse as much as myself.

I see by the Gazette that there are quite a number of people dying from the heat. It is the same way with us. We also have quite a little typhoid fever around here. That is supposed to be worse than typhoid fever. Our typhoid inoculations don't stop typhoid either. Every time we go in the mountains on scouting parties they shoot tubes of anti-toxin in our arms so if we get shot we will not get blood poison or lockjaw. Each one of these tubes contain 1,500 millimeters of dope. The first few make you deathly sick but a person gets used to it. When a person gets shot they inject it in the stomach. It works quicker than when put into the arm. I have learned a lot of things on this trip. There is a fellow here in the Fifth Cavalry and soldiered at Fort Sheridan before coming here and he gives the Tribune to me. According to that paper the militia must be having a fine time. At that we didn't turn out to be what we would have been. Must close now. Merton

CUSTOM OF CARRYING CANES

Biologists Trace It to Their Satisfaction to the Faraway Days of the Caveman.

A cane imparts a sense of confidence and ease to its carrier. Before the age of boomerangs, bows and arrows, firearms and steel a cane (or cudgel) in the hand was often a matter of life and death when a citizen of the canyons was attacked by an enemy. He who could ply his knotted stick with the best skill was probably the political boss of those days. A certain remnant of this primitive instinct exists today, remarks the Minneapolis Journal.

Some biologists trace the origin of the walking stick back even further than cavemen. In the arborescent stage certain animals were accustomed to the feel of wood and depended on trees for sudden ascension from danger. The ape found it easier to walk on his hind legs with a bowed stick in his paws. Whether there is any connection between these facts and the present use of the cane is, of course, highly theoretical.

Man today carries his walking stick for three reasons—it is fashionable, it makes walking easier and in the event of attack it may be used as an article of self-defense.

There are many memories and sentiments wrapped up in canes. Collections of them have the same artistic and historical value as any other antiques or curios. If you walk down the avenue with a cane that was once used by the prince of Wales, you probably step a little more proudly. The stick carried by your distinguished grandfather is a relic with which your household will never part.

CHICKEN THIEVES MAKE A BIG HAUL

One Hundred and Seventy-Five Stolen from Beloit Farm Yesterday—Local Coops Visited.

Janesville police today visited local butcher shops in an attempt to discover who the thieves were that stole yesterday one hundred and fifty chickens from the Strong farm, two and a half miles north of Beloit.

Local fanciers have also been visited by the thieves who are showing signs as much as actively as automobile thieves. A woman living on Hickory street lost about seventy-five birds some time ago and Officer Thomas Morrissey had fifteen stolen from her coops about a week ago yesterday.

LET GOOD RESOLUTIONS FADE

But Fugitive Impulse to Lead Better Lives Can't Help But Have an Ennobling Effect.

In one of his published sermons Henry Ward Beecher pictures a company of some two score persons, himself among the number, traveling by steamer down the Ohio river. Sabbath morning dawn, and the passengers ask the clergyman to conduct a religious service and give them an informal talk. He preaches on Paul's words, "In honor preferring one another." As the preacher unfolds the nobility and beauty of the unselfish life, not a few of his listeners are deeply moved. Here a head is bowed in serious thought, there a teardrop glistens in the eye, and frequently a hearer nods emphatic agreement with the preacher's words.

But as the notes of the closing hymn die, the good sounds for dinner, and the congregation rushes away in hot haste to get the best places at table and the first serving of food. At the first opportunity to put into practice the truth of the morning's sermon, the hearers forget the generous emotions it had excited, and let the selfish, self-seeking habits of life resume their sway.

And yet, Mr. Beecher adds, these people were not hypocrites. The emotion was genuine. While the impulse lingered they really meant to live more for others and less for themselves. But the impulse was fugitive. They never seized hold of it and molded it into a firm purpose.

What splendid biographies almost any of us might bequeath to the world if we could honestly express them in the terms of fleeting aspirations and impulses toward good and noble things! And what a melancholy chapter in even the best life is made up of its defeated ambitions, its unwrought deeds of kindness, its manly resolves that never came to anything, its heaven-sent visions that faded out in the light of the common day! The fugitive impulse is too weak to be trusted, but it has in it the making of that which curbs unruly passions, subdues deep-seated habits, and shapes the whole life on the broad lines of Christ's perfect manhood.—Youth's Companion.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—It's Certainly Hard Luck for Mother

Why Society Women Wash Their Own Hair

Few realize how many society women now wash their own hair, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. The thousands who have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift, but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only, say they get the best results from a simple home-made cantharox mixture. You can enjoy this, the best that is known, for about three cents a shampoo by getting some cantharox from your druggist, and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth. —Advertisement.

On his crossed heart young Patrick had denied old Patrick's accusation of wrongdoing. Old Patrick was unconvinced. "Don't I know ye?" he said. "Ye look innocent enough, ye young scallywag, but looks is deceivin'. Ye're that brazen that ye could stand there an' lie till ye was black in the face without ever changin' color!"

Be Careful in Using Soap on Your Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulled coconut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to Smith Drug Co. or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Kola capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat. —Advertisement.

Sullivan snook his head. "He might fall, but I doubt it. How does your sister feel?"

"That's the trouble. She's square, and we can't use her," Jim explained. "Some do!" admirably commented Armistead, the third member of the group. Armistead had once been famed in vaudeville for dancing, but the drug habit had destroyed his endurance, and with it his career. "She's a perfect thirty-six, all right. She could rip a lot of coin loose if she tried."

At this moment Mr. Melcher, freshly perfumed and tanned, entered the room. His white hair was arranged with scrupulous nicety; his pink face, as uncrinkled as his immaculate attire, was beaming with good-humor.

"Well, boys, I'm the pay-cur," he smiled. "Hammon came through, eh?" Sullivan inquired eagerly.

"Not exactly; we compromised. Quick sales and small profits; that's business."

"How strong did he go?" queried Armistead.

"Now, what's the difference, so long as you get yours? Photography is a paying business," Melcher laughed agreeably.

"Sure! I'll bet Sarnoy is rich," Young Sullivan carelessly accepted the roll of currency which Melcher tossed him, and the others did likewise.

"I suppose that's curtain for us," Jim said, regretfully.

"It is. The rest is Lila's affair."

"Say, will the old man fall again?" queried Armistead.

"He's going to marry her!" The three others stared at him in amazement. "Right!" confirmed Melcher. "She's got a strangle hold on him."

"Hm-m. Maybe we haven't lost the last car yet," Sullivan ventured.

Jim seconded the thought. "She's got an ace buried somewhere. There's a lot more in her head than hairpins. I wish Melcher would marry my sister."

"Not a chance," Melcher declared. "You'll be lucky to shake him down for a few thousand. How about Wharton?"

Will she stand for him?"

Jim frowned, and his voice was rough as he replied:

"I'll make her stand for him—if it's a marry."

"He's a lush; if you got him stewed he might go that far. It has been done; but, of course, it's all up to the girl. Anyhow, if he balks at the altar we might get him for something else."

"I'm not sure I'll need any help in this," Jim looked up coldly. "If he marries her, that ends it; if we have to frame him, of course I'll split."

"How are you going to frame him, with a square dame like Lorelei?" asked Armistead.

"Frame both of them," Melcher said, shortly. "By the way, he's a gambler, too, isn't he? Bring him in some night, Jim, and I'll turn for him myself."

"Save his cuff buttons for me," laughed Young Sullivan, idly rifling the cards. "Geef! Money comes easy to some folks. Don't you guys never expect to do any honest work?"

CHAPTER X.

Jim's appearance when he entered the dressing room that night was a surprise; he was clad in faultless evening attire.

"Why the barbaric splendor?" inquired Lorelei. "Do you want me to dress, too?"

"Sure thing. Look your best, and make me think I'm a regular John."

"Bergman dropped in to see me tonight," she told him, after they had gossiped for a moment. "I don't like the way he talked. He thinks he owns the girls who work for him."

Jim replied, carelessly: "Blow him and his job. You can get on at the Palace Garden."

"There's my contract; he can discharge me, you know, but I can't quit—that's one of the peculiarities of a theatrical contract. Well—he insisted on taking me to supper."

"A brother is a handy thing, once in a while, but for every-day use you need a 'steady' with a kick in each mit," suggested Jim.

"I wish you would punch him."

"Who? Me? And go for-riding with a square-toe? Nix. I'm too refused. Did you see tonight's papers?"

"There wasn't much in them."

Jim smiled wisely. "There would have been if things hadn't gone right. I'm glad for your sake."

"Oh, the harm's done, I suppose. But there's one good thing about it—Rob Wharton hasn't bothered me this evening."

Jim, with an expressionless face, tried to speak to Lila Lynn, who had just come in. When his sister came down after the last act, he was waiting at the door and helped her into a cab, despite her protestations that she would much prefer to walk.

"What are you going to do with all the coin you save? Slip it to the shoe-makers?" he laughed. "I don't go out often; you'd better spring me good."

As they seated themselves in the main room at Proctor's, he appraised her with admiring eyes. "You're the candy, sis. There's class to that layout."

"It's part of the game to look well in public, but I'd have enjoyed myself more if we had gone to Billy the Orysterman's and dressed the part."

She surveyed the gaudy dining room, with its towering marble columns, its tremendous crystal festoons, showering a brilliant but becoming light upon the throngs below, then nodded here and there to casual greetings.

Proctor's was a show place, built upon the site of a former resort the fame of which had been nation-wide; but the crowds that frequented it now were of a different type to those that had gathered in "the old Proctor's."

Prices were higher here than elsewhere; the waiters were robbers' dens, infested by Italian mafiosi; tips were extravagant and amounted in effect to ransom. But New York dearly loves to be pillaged. Nothing speeds the Manhattan sleep-hater more swiftly to a change of scene than the knowledge that he is getting his money's worth.

"Speaking of clothes," Jim continued, staring past his sister to another table, "there seems to be a strike breaker in the room. Pipe the gink with the nightshirt under his coat and the shoestring tie. There must be a masquerade—say! He's bowing to you."

"Hush! It's Campbell Pope, the critic."

Mr. Pope had risen and was slouching toward them. He took Lorelei's hand, then shot a sharp glance at her escort as the girl introduced them. Accepting Jim's mumbled invitation, he seated himself and instructed a waiter to bring his coffee. Jim watched the nearest entrance with some anxiety, for the reviewer's presence did not fit well with his plans. As he finished ordering he heard Pope say:

"I was sorry the story got out, Miss Knight; but it was pretty well smoothed in this evening's papers. Of course you were dragged in by the hair to afford a Roman spectacle; we all saw what it meant when it came to us."

"What did it mean?" queried Jim, with brotherly interest.

"Blackmail. The word was written all over it. Melcher's connection with the affair was proof of that; then—the way it was handled! Nobody touched it except the Dispatch, and, of course, it got its price."

"I thought newspapers paid for copy," innocently commented Jim.

"Yes, real newspapers; but the gang had to publish the stuff somewhere. It is reported that Hammon paid fifty thousand dollars to prevent Melcher from filing suit. I dare say things will be quiet around Tony the Barber's now."

"You press people certainly have got a lot up your sleeves," James' involuntary start of dismay did not pass unnoticed. He did not relish the gleam in Pope's eyes, and he hastily sought refuge in a goblet of water, notwithstanding his distaste for the liquid.

"We sometimes know as much as the police, and we invariably tell more," continued Pope. "Yes, a business man can get a haircut in Tony's without fear of family complications now. I suppose Armistead is smoking hop; Young Sullivan is probably laying an alcoholic foundation for a wife-beating, and—the others are spending Hammon's money in the cafes."

Jimmy Knight paled, for behind Pope's genial smile were both mockery and contempt; a panic swept him lest this fellow should acquaint Lorelei with the truth. Jim lost interest in his claims and thereafter avoided conversation with the wariness of a fox.

He was still glowing with resentment when Robert Wharton paused at the table and greeted its occupants cheerily. In response to Jim's invitation Bob drew up a fourth chair, seated himself, and began to beam upon Lorelei. Nothing the faint line of annoyance between her brows, he laughed.

"Retreat is cut off," he announced, complacently. "Escape is hopeless. I've left orders to have the windows barred and the doors walled up."

"Oh? What's the idea?" inquired Pope.

Wharton answered sadly: "My vanity has suffered the rudest jolt of its young career; I mourn the death of a perfectly normal and healthy self-concept. Age twenty-nine. Services at noon; friends and relatives only."

"Oh! You've heard the seductive song of the Rhine maiden?" Pope's eyes were twinkling.

"Eb—I'm tangled up like a basket of tickler tape. You see, Campbell, I drink; candor compels me to acknowledge that much. In a moment of folly I was indiscreet, and ever since I have been trying to apologize. In short, I'm in Dutch, and there sits the adorable cause of my sorrows."

In spite of Wharton's reproachful tone, the gaze he bent upon Lorelei was good-humored, and she saw that he was in a mood different to any she had ever seen him in. Strange to say, he was sober, or nearly so, and he was plainly determined to make her like him.

"Has he annoyed you, Miss Knight?" asked Pope.

"Dreadfully."

Wharton explained further. "The first time we met I deserved to be slapped, and I was. You see, I was ruder than usual. But I have sobered up purposely to apologize; I have repented, and—well, here we are, thanks to brother James."

"Thanks to—Jim?" Lorelei raised her brows.

Pope turned to young Knight and said, politely, "That is my foot you are stamping on."

Ignoring Jim's mute appeal, Wharton ran on, smilingly: "He promised to shake you to a table until I could stammer out my halting apologies, and now that I've done so in the presence of press and public won't you forgive me and help me to bury the hatchet in a Welsh rabbit?"

He was speaking directly to her with a genuine appeal in his handsome eyes. Now that she saw him in his right mind, it was unexpectedly hard to resist him, for he was very boyish and friendly—quite unlike the person who had so grievously offended her.

When she and Jim had first entered the restaurant they had received a polite but casual recognition from the head waiter, but there attentions had ceased. With Wharton as a member of the party, however, there came a change. Mr. Proctor himself paused momentarily at the table and rested a hand upon Wharton's shoulder while he voiced a few platitudes. Then in some inexplicable manner Robert found himself not only ordering for himself but supplementing Jim's menu with rare and expensive viands. As a great favor, he was advised of a newly imported vintage wine which the proprietor had secured for his own use.

Of course Mr. Wharton wished to sample such a vintage, any vintage, in fact, since a thousand dres were consuming him, and his nerves were on edge from the night before. The first draft electrified him, his spirits rose, and he swept his companions along with his enthusiasm. From surrounding tables people accosted him; men paused in passing to exchange a word about stocks, polo, scandal, Newport, tennis, Tuxedo; none were in the least stiff or formal, and all expressed in

PLAYGROUNDS PLAN ANNUAL TRACK MEET

Annual Playground Track Meet is Scheduled for Thursday; Many to Compete.

The annual track meet for the children in attendance at the city playgrounds will begin on Thursday. This year Supervisor Curtis has decided to change the general plan of running the event. In previous years the meet for both the boys and the girls was held on one day at the fair grounds. This year, however, each class of boys and girls will enter the events and take more interest because of the division in the classes.

Thursday the twelve to fifteen year old class of boys will have their events at the Webster grounds. The events will consist of a dash, high jump, broad jump, weight event and a contest for the best quoit pitchers. Friday will be for the boys under twelve years of age. All the events will be held at the Adams school. All the boys under the age limit will contest in five events during the afternoon of that day.

INDIANS DOWN TIGERS, 3 TO 2, ALTHOUGH OUT-HIT

Cleveland yesterday defeated Detroit, 3 to 2, although out-hit by one. With the score a tie in the ninth, Chapman walked, Speaker flied to Veach, Chapman made a bluff to that bag which was left uncovered as Chapman went back to first. Chapman dashed on again, went to third when Cobb fumbled the ball and scored when Vitti let Cobb's throw sail away from him. Sensational fielding by Smith featured the game.

BOSTON LOSES, 2 TO 1, TO WASHINGTON

Washington won from the league leading Boston Americans, 2 to 1, on Monday, when in the seventh inning Carl Mays passed two men and Morgan flied, scoring both. Hooper lost Boston's chance to tie in the eighth. He ran from first to second base, when Barry sent a long fly to left field, and was unable to return after the ball was caught. Lewis, the new batter, doubled along the left field line.

Boston scored in the third on a pass, a fielder's choice and a single by Hooper.

MORRIS MILLER

It may be remembered that as far back as in April both John McGraw of the Giants and George Stallings of the Braves sneered at the Brooklyn Dodgers' pennant chances. Muggsy's declared repeatedly that his bunch was the strongest in the league and that his only fear was the Boston Braves. In spite of the strength of his team McGraw has disheveled up a lot of his employee's money in the purchase and salaries of Slim Sallee and Charley Herzog and he must have thought that these would prepare him to shove the Dodgers aside and fight it out with the Braves he would do well to give the matter more thought. The Dodgers don't seem to crack under the strain. They look able to continue as they have for yet a while. Any battling the Giants are to do with the Braves for the pennant will have to occur after Muggsy's boys have won more of their games than they've managed to heretofore.

The quotation from one of Christy Mathewson's weekly letters is submitted to the directors of the Cincinnati club for study: "To my way of thinking, a big league manager, to be at all successful, must have a free hand with his club and if he has the makings of a good manager in him he will insist on this thing above all others." About this time prepare for news that the Cincinnati directors have sold or bought a player and forgotten to let the manager know about it.

Floods in the south lately have played hob with schedules of leagues in that section. First the games at Mobile were stormed out for a week.

Ray McKee.

Ray McKee, the Detroit backstop, farmed out to Toronto in the International league, has recently been recalled in the absence of Oscar Stange and has been a big help to the Tigers. Regular work behind the bat for Toronto has meant a great improvement in Ray's work.

or so and then clubs in the South Atlantic and other leagues in that section suffered. The Macon ball park has been a lake for the past ten days. The big storm that hit Asheville marooned the Asheville and Raleigh teams of the North Carolina League there for nearly a week. As the result financial situations, already bad, have been made worse.

Claude Cooper, now with the Phillies, and Bill Bradley, last heard from as ex-manager of a Class D team, have started suit against the Brooklyn Federal league club for salaries alleged to be due under those highly equitable contracts they held with the Wards. The odd thing about it is that John M. Ward, who was at one time associated with the bakery Wards, should be the attorney for the aggrieved ball players. Vincent Campbell, now playing semi-pro ball in Baltimore, also has sued the Newark Feds on his contract.

Secretary Farrell has issued an odd ruling in the appeal of Joe Gardner from the Texas league rule that bars the use of more than four "vet-erans" by any club. Farrell's decision was that as the rule does not prohibit use of such players absolutely, but merely provides a fine on a club using them, so it stands thus: Any club can use as many players from higher class leagues as it desires, provided it pays $100 a day to the league treasury for the privilege. That's certainly one for the book.

William E. (Kid) Mahling, a veteran infielder of many minor leagues, dropped dead of heart disease at his home in Newark, N. J., recently. He was a native of Cleveland and was 37 years of age. Mahling began his career in the late nineties in the Middle West, then went to the Southern league and advanced to the old Eastern (now International). In 1903, playing with Newark until 1909, when he joined Toronto. Later he played in the New York State league and the American association. His last work as a ball player was in the Interstate league with Akron and Columbus and he retired in 1913.

John Coombs, the veteran right-hander of the Brooklyn, says that if the Superbas win the National league title, he will bring home the money in the world's series. He considers them two of the greatest pitchers in the business and at their best in a tough series. John is too modest to mention himself as a probable worker in the big event, but he says he remembers how skillfully he pitched for the Athletics against the Giants.

Natty McIntyre, who used to out-field for the Tigers, is managing the Mobile team in the Southern Association now. He succeeds Charley Schmidt, who used to catch for the Tigers.

Something To Cut And Paste

Here is the "Three-Face Town Guide-Post." Paste the drawings on a piece of white paper. Color the soldier's suit, and also the sign-post. Sometimes you will find it easier to copy those drawings much larger on another piece of white paper before coloring. After coloring, cut out each figure separately. Now fold in the centers, as shown by the arrows, and paste each figure, "back to back," so that you will have three posts made into one, which stands alone and faces in three directions like this top view A.

Why they're Sensible

OCCASIONALLY, a more heavy, full-powered cigarette than Fatima tastes mighty good. But heavy cigarettes are a little too "oily" and rich to suit most men for long. You are certain to find more comfort in a delicately balanced blend like Fatima. Because Fatimas leave a man feeling keen and fit even after smoking more often than usual. That's why they're sensible. Prove it yourself.
